conversation went on.

A Very Mad Man, but no Lugatic. Dr. Baujo, the celebrated curer of insane people, was the other day engaged to go to a hotel, in charge of a man who had suddenly gone mad. He went to the hotel and was shown up to the room compied by Colonel Poker, and went in. A look at the patient satisfied the doctor that at that moment the man was comparatively calm. The doctor saluted him, and sitting down, began to chat about the weather. The patient looked at the doctor in a rather bewildered way, and finally asked him what brought him there. Of course the doc-tor couldn't tell the truth, and said he had just come in for a social call. The colonel seemed quite amezed at this, and eat down, and the

The doctor was very careful about what he said and tried to draw the colonel out, to find what the particular feature of the madness was, and so curiously did he act that it suddenly occarred to the colonel that his visitor was madmao. He was awfully scared and a cold sweat broke out all over him. He rose and said: "My dear sir, you must excuse me, I've got to go cut to meet an engagem ut." The doctor mildly but firmly replied: "You muss't go, sir. I wish to talk with you" The colonel hesitated, but dared not offend the madman, and so sat down. Several times during the three or four hours they sat there, did the colonel try to make excuses to get out, and of course, the dector of cted. And there they sat and talked, each watching the other narrow-ly: each afraid of the other, the colonel nearly wild and utterly at a loss what to do. It was an will session for both. At last the colonel could stand it no longer, and said: "Really, sir, you must excuse me; I must go."

He started, but the doctor interposed. Desperate, the colonel circ sed him. The doctor felt that he had to cope with a terrible foe and a desperate contest took place. All over the room they fought. Neither cried out, each husbanding his breath. The furniture and the clothes were completely wr cred in the combat. The dic or, however, was the most muscular man and finally oversame and bound the colopel. Having secured the lunstic the doctor seeing it was a very bad case, then preceded to put the colonel in a chair, and started to shave his bead, the colonel trembling with fear, not daring to cry ou and being unable to resist. One-half the colonel's head was shaved, when the landford suddenly came up to the room and

"Dector, come and take charge of that madman; he's breaking furniture in the next room."

The doctor stooped shaving.
"Good Lord!" he cried "Isn't this the lunatic?" "No; they showed you the wrong room." The doctor released the colonel and tried to apologize, but a man who has been made bald on one side of his head isn't in a condition to accept an apology. He was the maddest man in seven counties and it took four to hold him while the doctor fled. And now the colone, with his head tied up in a red silk handkerchief, is cavorting all over the town getting ready to sue the doctor for $7,000,000 damages.—N. F.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY VS. EXPERIMENTS A boy about fourteen years of age was smoking a cigar on the south portion of the City Hall the other morning when a citizen balted before him and said: "Boy, do you realize what you are doing?" "Smoking a powerful good five center, won on a bet," was the reply, "But don't you know that you are filing your system with poisor?" "Naw." "Well you are. That eight contains enough picotine to kill a cat." "I'm no cat." "I know. It does not kill you suddenly, but poisons the blood and sows the seed of fell disease. You may drop dead on your way tome." 'I ain't goin' home." 'It fills me with horror to see a lad of your age destroying both soul and body. By, I entreat you to throw away that vile cigar." "I daso't. Some one else would pick it up and be pizened." "Throw it away and I'll buy you three apples." "Don't like 'em." "Oc a quart of peanule." "Say," said the boy, as the foodly regarded the inch of ashes at the end of the eigar, "I bet a boy the eigars this morning that he couldn't touch his tongue to a lamp post and then sing "Saliy Walters."
He teched, and there's a crowd up there now trying to thaw him loose. I sin't very soart about bein' pizened, and I don't keer much for fatherly advice, but if you've got any spare time you might go up there and tell that 'ere boy that a ocu, k of natural philosophy is worth a bull bargful of experiments."

A CUNNING CAT. - A gentleman who took a trip into the country yesterday, when on the plains, a mile from any house, noticed a cat, a buge one, almost as large as a fair sized dog. Itwas lying upon the ground its feet uppermost. in such a way that he had no doubt that it had fallen a victim to some viscious dog. Around it, feeding unsuspectingly, was a flock of small birds. The apparently lifeless car was within range of the vision of the observer for some time, and just as he was thicking how much easier it would be for the animal to feign death and catch a bird by decriving it than by slipping up to it, he was astonished to see the cat suddenly roll over and grab one of the feathered tribe that was very near. The other birds flaw away a hundred yards or so and alighted. The cat only made one or two mouthinis of the game, and then crept around to the windward of the birds, laid itself out again, and once more suce safully played the dead dodge. The gentleman drove away without seeing how many birds it took to same y too fe ide. - Carson Ap
